WILD EXPERIENCES TOLD BY HUNTERS

Thrilling Things Related by Hunters in Camp in Bottom in Western Part of County. Names Withheld but "Stillitis" Thought to Have Been Cause of Hair-Raising Episodes.

One of the younger hunters residing not a great way from Grenada is said to have brought a thrilling and exciting story as to what he and his four companions heard and saw while in the "swamp" in the western portion of the county only a few days ago. If this man were not usually regarded as one who would speak the truth and shame the devil one might be expected to say, on hearing the narrative, "Oh, that's just a hunting lie; you know it cannot be true".

The Sentinel is not undertaking to vouch for the truthfulness of the story but is passing it along as it came to it. Names would be called but for the Game and Fish Law. It is not known that these hunters were seeking any game which the law forbids being hunted at this time, or that they killed, even after being attacked, any wild animal or any birds of feather. If there were ever known to be any stills, or a still, in those uninhabited parts, one would at once conclude that it was the "white mule" within that was battling their innards and that the noise from within was mistaken for the noise from without. But here is about what was stated as nearly as it can be written. The relator seemed to become so frightened at even repeating what he thinks took place, that it was difficult to get a well connected story:

The five hunters whom this paper will refer to as John Doe, Billy See, Jeff Quick, Hot Poker and Jimmy Hushup, had crossed the Yalobusha river and reached the western bank in time to locate a camping place for the night before the sun set. They picked what they regarded as an ideal place between a heavy cane brake and the edge of a lake. In a short time the tent was up, the beds for the night fixed and supper prepared. While they were eating, and just as one of them had his cup turned up to take a swallow of hot coffee, a noise broke loose in the high and heavy cane a short distance behind them that sounded to them more like the explosion of a thousand firecrackers in a hogshead filled with fifty fighting tom cats. Joe Doe was so frightened that he hollered, "Let's get into the boat" and he followed up his suggestion with a run to the lake but instead of jumping into the boat he mistook for the boat a cypress log which had all the bark off and which was lying just above the water's level across the lake and jumped onto the log, missed his footing, and went down into ten feet of water. Bill See climbed a persimmon tree hard by and Jimmy Hushup got his gun and backed himself up against a tree and cried "come along; I'm not afraid of your whole regiment". Jeff Quick ran into a hollow log and Hot Poker fortified himself with a skillet full of hot grease.

About this time they looked down the lake and saw what they thought was a pack of wolves. The dogs, instead of attacking the wild animals, huddled as close as they could get around the camp, each one whining all the time. The man up the tree was hollering at the top of his voice, "help, help, bloody murder. A rhinoceros mixed with a coyote is after us, come quickly or we perish". The man who had mistaken the log for the boat was beseeching his comrades

TWO MAD DOGS KILLED

Last Saturday between Leflore and Parsons, John Dulweber killed a mad dog and on Wednesday County Game Warden R. E. Hall killed one just below Parsons.

Everyone, particularly in that section of the county, should exercise the greatest care and caution around dogs at this season and children especially should be guarded.

MISS NAOMI HARRISON DIES

Death claimed Miss Naomi Harrison March 24, at her home in Elliott. She was 70 years of age. She was reared in the vicinity of Scobey, and her father, brothers and sisters were known for their fine Christian worth. She was a devout believer and since her girlhood had been a worker in the Master's vineyard, having very early united with the Baptist church. For perhaps twenty years she had made her home at Elliott with her widowed sister, Mrs. Virginia Williamson, whose husband, Rev. T. B. Williamson, was known as one of the most earnest and sincere minded men in all the country. Besides Mrs. Williamson, another sister, Miss Sue Williamson was an inmate of the home. These two sisters and a nephew, Gray Harrison, who resides near Scobey, are the only immediate relatives that survive her. The Sentinel tenders sympathy to the bereft.

Cotton Gambling Is Decried By Senator

W. J. Harris, Representative in Upper House of Congress from Georgia, Says Gambling in Farm Products Does Not Help Producer.

Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, in addressing the United States senate February 13, when the bill offered by Senator Carraway of Arkansas to prevent the sale of cotton and grain future markets was under consideration said, among other things, the following which is worthy of the serious consideration of every southern farmer and of every one interested in giving the farmer real relief:

"Mr. President, I can not understand the reasoning of anyone who thinks that gambling in farm products helps the producer. Not only that, but one of the largest cotton brokers in the United States, under oath, stated that hardly any of his customers dealing through his firm who had gambled in cotton and continued his operations year in and year out who had not lost money. I know that in many places in my State there are men whose fortunes have been wrecked because of their gambling in cotton futures.

To my mind, gambling in buying and selling nearly 200,000,000 bales of cotton on the New York and New Orleans cotton exchanges when only 12,000,000 or 14,000,000 bales are produced by the farmers should not be tolerated. It is harmful to the producers of cotton and does good to no one else.

"The measure is not everything I should like to have; there are some changes which I should like to see made in it; but I shall vote for it just as it is and the bill can be perfected in conference. I desire further to say that I can not understand how any Senator can vote against this measure who is interested in the producers of cotton or any other farm products in our country.

"I hope the Senator from North Dakota (Mr. Frazier) is mistaken in stating that the lobby has defeated this bill. The able Senator from Arkansas (Mr. Carraway), the author of this measure, states that the greatest lobby he has ever known is here trying to defeat his measure to protect the cotton and grain growers.

"Senators opposing this bill have stated that the bulls and bears who gamble in cotton futures raise the price of cotton. This statement is nonsense, as everyone knows the bears would not gamble on cotton futures at all unless they could depress the price of cotton. Anyone should know that it is not only wrong to gamble in cotton futures, but it is a great injury to the cotton farmers to allow the cotton exchanges to gamble on 10 bales of cotton for every 1 bale raised by the farmers."

CIVIC LEAGUE TO MEET

The Civic League will hold its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. H. J. Ray, Tuesday, April 9th, at 4 p. m. A full attendance of the membership is urged and all who are interested in civic improvement are cordially invited to attend and become members.

What the league can accomplish depends on the co-operation and support of the citizens of Grenada. In a few weeks we will put on our annual clean-up campaign. We should begin now to plant flowers and shrubs and beautify our lawns. We have established a reputation as a clean attractive city. We must live up to it. Please send your 1929 dues to Mrs. J. L. Avent, treas. Mrs. C. C. Penn, Chairman.

BOLT OF LIGHTNING KILLS DUCK HILL MAN

Father of Nine Children Loses Life in Field near Duck Hill when Struck by Lightning Wednesday Afternoon. Another Man, His Companion, Stunned and Burned by Bolt.

Duck Hill, Miss., April 3.—One man was killed and another painfully injured late this afternoon when a bolt of lightning struck them in an open field one mile east of here while they were seeking protection in a cotton house from a thundershower.

Costello Moore, 65, was instantly killed while his companion, Luther Dunn, 50, was only stunned and burned.

Mr. Dunn and Mr. Moore were working in a cotton field when the storm came up. When the rain became a downpour they sought shelter in a cotton house. Mr. Dunn had just reached the structure when the bolt of lightning struck, and was only stunned and burned by the bolt. When he regained consciousness he saw his companion lying on the ground. When he reached him he found that he was dead.

Mr. Moore is survived by his widow and nine children, five sons, C. F. and Parker of Gulfport; R. D., of Chicago, and Shelton and Will of Duck Hill; and four daughters, Mrs. Laura Mitchell of Grenada; Misses Thelma and Joe Wrenn Moore of Grenada, and Miss Agness Flod Moore of Duck Hill.

Funeral services will be held here Friday.

Dunn's injuries are not expected to prove serious.

GRENADA HOSPITAL PRACTICALLY FULL

The Grenada Clinic is doubly busy these days. Dr. J. K. Avent, general surgeon, left Sunday to spend six weeks or more in special hospital work in New York City, nevertheless all the needs of hospital patients and those who need surgical work are being cared for at the Grenada Hospital. A gentleman was heard to remark in the writer's presence a few days ago, "I do not see how this section ever got along without the Grenada Hospital. I have been there as a patient, and I know that no one could have had better attention than I did". Grenada and this entire section place a high value on the Grenada Hospital, and so does the medical profession of the surrounding territory, and that means a large territory, too. As is so often said and written, the medical profession has made greater advancement during the past twenty-five years than all other professions put together. The doctors keep striving to learn how to keep people from getting ill as well as how to cure them when they are stricken. The doctors of Grenada and section are of the highest class and they may be counted on for the best in all things.

EASTER SERVICES IN GRENADA

The several churches of Grenada had their Easter services. The flowers and gleanings of other gifts of Nature served to emphasize the Easter spirit and to make one understand better that the Resurrection means a new life and a new day when all the gladsome and holy things of earth and heaven shall join in one sublime purpose and effort.

Bishop William Mercer Green held the services at All Saints' Episcopal church and delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. Many in Grenada outside of the Episcopal church are always glad over his visitations and regret that maybe conditions are such when he comes that they are not able to hear his message.

BALL GAME TODAY

The Grenada Bulldogs, who started the 1929 baseball season so auspiciously when they gave the nine from Water Valley High School a sound trouncing in the opening game, will meet the Charleston High team on the local diamond this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Charleston is said to have a strong team but local fans contend that Grenada will send them to the cleaners. Your presence at the game this (Friday) afternoon will help the home boys in administering a real thrashing to the visitors.

LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS

At a well attended meeting held in the mayor's office last Friday night the local post of the American Legion elected its officers to serve for 1929. They are J. B. Keeton, commander, Charles Wriggins, vice-commander, and D. D. Crawford, adjutant.

The meeting was adjourned to meet again last (Thursday) night at which time several matters brought up for discussion last Friday were to be disposed of.

VIOLATING LIQUOR LAWS COSTS NINE $2400.00

Sheriff Fred S. Nason has been giving especially good attention to the enforcement of the prohibition laws in Grenada county and as a result seven were brought to trial Tuesday afternoon for the sale of liquor. The officers have several other arrests to make within the next few days when they have completed their evidence.

Most of the seven arraigned Tuesday entered pleas of guilty and those who plead not guilty were convicted as well. The total fines will amount to approximately $1800. The seven negroes were Cow Walker, Blake Perry, Garnett Rundles, Walton Golden, Dave Armstrong, Water Boy and John Bidwell.

Two others were tried Wednesday, their fines amounting to $600. They were Pomp Parker and Frank Edwards.

City Marshal J. D. Crenshaw and other local officers and Constable Lee Clark, in beat 3, have been aiding the sheriff in his investigations and all have rendered material assistance in bringing the offenders into court. An undercover prohibition officer has also been instrumental in the success of the campaign against liquor vendors.

All the nine negroes tried sold whiskey to one or more of the officers, the evidence showed and, in several instances, the sheriff was the purchaser. The negroes are now sadder but wiser from their mistake.

Preacher Describes Chinese New Year

Tells of Celebration of China's Greatest Holiday When Millions Are Spent for Fireworks and When All Debts Are Paid.

Editor Sentinel:

We are in the midst of the Chinese Big feast—Chinese New Year. Every one's birthday comes on this day. Should a child be born in even the last hour of the last day of the old year it would be two years old on New Years. New Year came on Sunday, Feb. 10th. Every store was closed. All work stopped. But it was not quiet! It was like many Fourth of Julys in one. Oh! the firecrackers! At midnight I was wakened by a vast broadside of large and small fire-crackers and they kept it up for days. In the morning the ground was covered as by red snow—the "confetti" of exploded fire-works. Firecrackers are but a part of the feast—the noisy part.

The last day of the year everybody is busy—the men at closing up their accounts. All bills must be collected and all debts paid. Woe be to the man who does not pay his debts. The women are very busy. The house must be made as clean as a pin and decorated, and the brooms hidden—bad luck if they appear on New Year. Before the New Year sun rises all kinds of food must be gotten ready! Guests—many—will come during those days and they must be feasted. Few people see slumber the last night of the old year. But when the sun rises, calm reigns over the household. As one walks out between 6 and 9 a. m. the whole town is asleep. Sunday indeed! But excitement arouses them and about 10 o'clock you'll find the streets alive with people dressed in their best "bib and tucker" and you hear, "Kong Hyi Fah-dzai"—"Congratulations and abounding wealth to you", shouted from one to another. The closed doors are plastered with appropriate sayings written on blood-red strips of paper. Go to open spaces of the city and see crowds encircling puppet shows, acrobats, monkey performers, squirming dragons, entertainers of all kinds, and peddlers of sweets and children's toys—Vanity Fair! Go to the temples and you find thousands burning incense and candles before all the

STATE MUSIC EXAMINATION IS TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The written examination for state music license will be held at the county seats by the county superintendents of education Saturday, April 6th, beginning at nine o'clock in the following subjects: Piano Pedagogy, Violin Pedagogy, Harmony, History of Music, Music Appreciation, Public School Music Methods.

NEW RECTOR TO ARRIVE

The Episcopal congregation of Grenada is looking forward with unusual satisfaction to the arrival of its new rector. Rev. J. H. Boosey, and family. Mr. Boosey will conduct the services next Sunday morning, and Sunday night it is announced that the other churches of the town will join in a union service at All Saints' church as a welcome to the new rector. The Sentinel feels sure that Mr. Boosey and family will be most cordially welcomed by Grenada's always thoughtful and hospitable citizenship.

RMER MINISTER ERE FOR SERMONS

J. R. Cunningham, of tol Tenn., Former Pas- of First Presbyterian rch, Opened Series of ices Tuesday Evening. Continue into Next Week.

The Presbyterian congregation of Grenada, led by its very worthy and popular pastor, Rev. R. L. McLeod, Jr., is enjoying a feast of the soul because of the series of services which began in the First Presbyterian church Sunday night, and one of the particular reasons why such interest is being taken in the meeting is because that Rev. J. R. Cunningham, who served the church so ably and so well prior to the pastorate of Rev. E. S. Campbell, the immediate predecessor of Mr. McLeod, is doing the preaching.

Mr. Cunningham is now at Bristol, Tenn. It is doubtful if Grenada ever had a minister in its midst who was more universally esteemed and more genuinely loved than Mr. Cunningham, and this is true without regard to denominational lines. He came to Grenada a short while after he left the army at the conclusion of the World War. He always seemed to know what subjects to discuss in his pulpit and he delivered his sermons in a way to command attention and so as to rivet the interest of his hearers.

The sermons he has delivered thus far in the meeting show that that he has still further developed the habit that makes him get ready access to the hearts and to the reasoning powers of his hearers. His sermons show that he continues to be a student of men and of conditions and that he understands well the art of applying Bible truths and scriptural lessons in the pulpit. Not only does Mr. Cunningham know how to deal with humanity from his pulpit, but he knows how to deal with it on the streets and in the various avenues of what the world sometimes calls "business". It is therefore but natural that one of his type should have ready entrance to the hearts of any people who know him.

Humanity is struggling for something out and beyond this life. All peoples have had some sort of religion; they have it today. This is a day when men are suffering from a certain sort of agitation, the like of which the world never before experienced. With the multiplying problems before the civilized world, there can be no doubt about the need of pure and undefiled religion. This need is one of the main thoughts the preacher is seeking to emphasize in his sermons. He is striving to get his hearers to act on what they will readily admit is true and that is that the Christian religion is the only sure remedy for the ills that are disturbing the serious minded of the world.

The meeting will probably continue until the middle or latter part of next week. Before the conclusion it is plannd to have the Sunday School annex ready and to have Mr. Cunningham officiate at its dedication.

A revival meeting is also due to begin at the First Baptist church next Sunday, the preaching to be done by the Rev. Norman Cox. There was no prearranged conflict. The accidents of fate made it impossible for the Presbyterians to secure Mr. Cunningham until the present time, and when it was known just when he could come, the congregation of the First Baptist church had already made public the announcement of the beginning of the revival to be conducted by Mr. Cox.

Mr. Cunningham's sermon Wednesday night was an able, comprehensive discussion of God's desire that men and women be witnesses of his immeasurable love, goodness and mercy. The sermon was delivered in the minister's own inimitable way. He was eloquent and yet made no effort to be so. He presented the truths of his subject in such a simple and penetrating way that almost anyone could catch the full measure of his meaning.

His subject was, "Personal Work". His text was taken from Acts 1:8, "Ye shall be witnesses", words uttered by Jesus in Jerusalem to his disciples just before his ascension. The minister said that with all the duties growing out of the organization of the churches of the present day it was impossible for the preacher to do personal work needed to be done, hence this part of the spread of the gospel devolved largely upon the men and the women of the church. He said Jesus was never too busy to do personal work and that he had frequently foregone speaking to multitudes to get in personal touch with some inquiring and unsaved soul. He told the incident of the little maid mentioned in Second Kings, chapter five, who had been brought out of Israel by the Syrians and made a servant in Naaman's home, and how this little maid through Naaman's wife reached her master with her message. He made mention of Jesus seeing Zaccheus in the sycamore tree and how it was that Jesus called him down and told Zaccheus that he was going to take dinner with him and of what that visit to Zaccheus meant and how it made him change his habits and manner of living. He then referred to Nicodemus and his desire for a personal conference with Jesus. He referred to a number of incidents, one in Grenada during his pastorate here, of men saying that nobody, not even their closest friends, had ever said anything to them about God's goodness and love and the necessity of giving their hearts to their Maker.

The minister's entire sermon was an appeal to be up and about the Father's business and the necessity of men so living that they would not be embarrassed by their own lives when they undertook to talk salvation to others. Men, he said, might shun their duty but it would meet them face to face. God, he said, needed witnesses and not lawyers for his cause.

BORDEN BUYS GIN OUTFIT

What is said to be one of the most modern gin outfits made has just been purchased by John Borden for Glenwild Plantation. The gin, manufactured by the Continental Gin Co., is all electric and is made up of 380 saw stands with triple saw. Mitchell boll extractors, said to have more cleaning capacity than any machine known, insure absolutely clean cotton when it comes from the gin.

Kemp Mattingly, of Grenada, representative of the Continental Gin Co., made the sale of the outfit to Mr. Borden.

The outfit, which is to be installed in plenty of time for this year's cotton crop, will be used to gin the Glenwild crop and will also gin for the general public. It will be installed in the east wing of the administration building on Glenwild.

This is but another evidence of Mr. Borden's interest in this section and of his desire to have everything on Glenwild Plantation thoroughly up-to-date.

Minister Disappears With Funds Of Bank

Pastor of Methodist Church at Pheba Missing with Part of Funds of Bank of Which He Was Cashier. Is Accompanied by Family.

Pheba, Miss., April 3.—With $2,010 additional missing from the Bank of Pheba and the finding of his automobile, it is believed here today that the Rev. F. F. Coggins, 35, minister-cashier, has absconded with bank funds and headed for the oil fields, where he worked in his younger days.

Until the state bank examiners had completed their audit today friends of the minister believed that he had met with foul play. He left here Friday morning, saying he and his wife and baby were going to visit his wife's father at Tupelo. He took $500 from the Bank of Pheba, where he worked during the week, to get change from the bank at West Point for Saturday's business. From the First National Bank at West Point he withdrew $1,000 of the Pheba bank's funds and has not been heard from since.

A warrant was issued for his arrest Monday by Sheriff Lon H. Miller of Clay County. Today Sheriff O. T. Trapp of Lee County found the minister's automobile stored in a Tupelo garage. In it he left his Bible and some tax receipts of the bank. The sheriff there found two parties who saw the minister and his family at the depot, only a block away from the garage Friday afternoon, near the time when the M. and O. and Frisco local passenger trains were due to leave. It has not been determined which train they left on.

Inquiry at the home of J. R. Latham, the minister's father in law, whom he and his wife were supposed to visit in Tupelo Friday, revealed that they had never appeared there. A letter was received from Mrs. Coggins by Mr. Latham today, according to Sheriff Trapp, saying that she and the minister would visit them Friday.

According to employes at the Tupelo garage where the car was found, the minister drove up to the depot with a flat tire and walked over to the garage. He told them to get the automobile and put on a new tire, saying that he would call for it later in the day. He went back to the depot where his wife and baby were waiting for him according to garage employes.

Coggins has been pastor of the Methodist Church here four years and for the past two years he has been cashier of the bank. It was his custom to go to the bank at West Point for change and as the Pheba bank keeps some of its funds in the West Point institution it was easy for him to withdraw the $1,000.

According to information here the minister received a telephone call Friday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock asking him to come to Tupelo because some of his wife's relations were ill. It has not been ascertained who the informant was. His kinspeople at Tupelo say they did not call him.

NEGROES CONFESS TO LOCAL THIEVERY

Acknowledge Theft of Watch and Other Valuables from Grenada Home Tuesday Afternoon and Admit Stealing and Peddling Shrubbery from Odd Fellows' Cemetery.

Lewis Winter and Willie Sykes, local negroes, are in jail awaiting trial on charges of entering the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Grigory in south Grenada Tuesday afternoon and stealing a valuable watch belonging to Mrs. Grigory, besides other articles. The stolen goods were recoverd.

Winter was located in Winona by Night Marshal George Kilgore. He was arrested there by Winona officers and City Marshal J. D. Crenshaw and Mr. Kilgore returned him to Grenada Wednesday. Sykes was arrested here Wednesday by local officials. The two negroes confessed their guilt to officers and admitted also to stealing shrubbery from Odd Fellows' Cemetery and peddling it over town to various people.

Tuesday night, an effort was made also to steal Mr. Grigory's car but the effort was unsuccessful. Whether the two negroes can be connected with this and with the theft of the Wilson car the same night is not known now.

Tuesday night, the automobile of J. C. Wilson, parked on South Street in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCool, where Miss Cora Leigh Wilson was a guest for the evening, was stolen between nine and ten o'clock. Officers spent the greater part of Tuesday night in an effort to locate the car but their efforts were without success. They found it, however, Wednesday abandoned south of Elliott.

ROTARIANS HEAR REPORT OF TRIP TO CLARKSDALE

At their meeting Tuesday noon, Grenada Rotarians were regaled by an account of the trip made by twenty members of the Grenada club to the district conference held in Clarksdale last week. The narrator was Hurd Horton, who long ago made for himself a reputation as a humorist. Few of those who attended the conference escaped his thrusts and many were to be seen squirming and twisting in their seats as the speaker recounted various happenings while in the delta city. In the vernacular, "every shot was a pigeon", and while all present were indulging continually in hearty laughter, all were glad when Mr. Horton had concluded his report. The writer, himself a Rotarian, feels honor bound not to give a detailed account of Mr. Horton's remarks, since it might perhaps disturb much of the harmony now existing in Grenada.

Following Mr. Horton, W. B. Hoffa gave a realistic account of the "heroism" of Mr. Horton on the return trip home when he had to partially disrobe and wade some distance in water so that the car in which they were riding might safely proceed.

R. E. Hall, county game warden and secretary of the local Izaak Walton League, who was a guest at the luncheon, extended an invitation to Rotarians to join the league and also to join the Grenada County Outing Club, now in its infancy, which purposes to build a chain of lakes in the county.

President Andrew Carothers, announced that Dr. J. R. Cunningham, now of Bristol, Tenn., and a former Grenadian, now here for a series of sermons at the First Presbyterian Church, would address the club next Tuesday. A cordial invitation was extended the club members to attend the services.

Announcement was made of the ball game Friday afternoon between Grenada High and Charleston High and Rotarians were urged to witness the game.

The president notified the members of the election of officers for another year, the election to be held at the meeting Tuesday, April 16.

F. R. Lickfold, Jr., who became a member of the club on March 19, is to receive his charge at the meeting next Tuesday.

Other guests at Tuesday's luncheon were J. S. Troupe, of Water Valley, L. D. Boone, of Memphis, and Rev. J. H. Holder and John S. McRae, Jr.

REVIVAL BEGINS SUNDAY

Dr. Norman Cox, of Meridian, will open a two weeks' revival service in the First Baptist Church of Grenada next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The services will continue twice daily through Sunday, April 21. Joe Canzoneri, a singer of unusual ability and who has been in meetings before, will direct the music for the revival.

Dr. Cox has met with extraordinary success in meetings he has held and is said to be a preacher of note. The general public has been extended a cordial invitation to attend the services.

FROM HAMILTON'S DAY ON.

From the days of Alexander Hamilton, the bankers and leading financiers of New York City together with the smaller fry in those parts, have been shearing the balance of the country.

Hamilton's idea was that only men of wealth should rule the country and in this position he had the support and sympathy of most of the federal leaders.

John Adams, the second president, thought that men of wealth should not be compelled to be seated in even the United States senate hall with senators who were not born to the purple or who were not the possessors of great fortunes. And in furtherance of this belief, he said: "The rich, the well born and the able should be set apart from other men in the senate".

But for Thomas Jefferson, who was regarded by Hamilton and his followers as an enemy of the government and a conspirator to incite the "common people", this government would have been one by the rich and powerful by law, and as a result we would have had a feudalism that would have shown by comparison the insignificance of the feudalism of England.

The New York bankers are still tapping the till. The Federal Reserve Banking system has served to "slow 'em up", but the recent wild speculating in Wall Street has shown that they have learned to circumvent the Federal Reserve Banking law. According to Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, the author of the Federal Reserve Banking law, Charles E. Mitchell, a director of the New York Reserve bank, and the one who offered to lay twenty-five million dollars on the gambling scaffold just a few days ago when call money went to 20 cents, discredited the Federal Reserve Banking law and ought to be made to resign.

The government under no possible conditions should lend its money to speculative gambling either in New York or elsewhere. Wall Street has used in speculation more money in the past 90 days than all the rest of the country combined. The stock market has been played in the wildest manner and, as one of the results, the balance of the country has been drained of its idle money to aid the Wall Street gambling.

How long shall the 115,000,000 people of this country outside of Wall Street continue to be fleeced by the 100,000 or less on Wall Street? Our answer would be until forbearance ceases to be a virtue—and then a cyclone.

If withholding either directly on indirectly government aid in furnishing money for speculating "busts 'em", why let 'em bust. A shaking up will not hurt the great body of the people.

WERNER'S ARTICLES UNFAIR TO BRYAN.

The series of articles discussing the public life and character of William Jennings Bryan by M. R. Werner, thirteen in number, which have been appearing in the Liberty Magazine and which are concluded with the issue of April 6, not only do not do the dead statesman justice but display a venom by the author unworthy of one handling historical facts and the deeds of men with whom he disagrees.

Mr. Werner uses many poisoned potions evidently with the hope of anaesthetizing the influence which Mr. Bryan sought to sow in the character of the American people.

In saying this we might observe that we were not one of those who went wild over "free silver at 16 to 1", in 1896, but on the contrary we agreed with Grover Cleveland who said that "free silver" would be one of the most disastrous things that could be inflicted on the American people. The campaign Bryan made in 1896 has clung to the Democratic party like a Nemesis. It created a fear in the minds of "business" that the party has not been able to show was wholly groundless.

Bryan was a crusader and a dreamer about many things. He lacked that practical grasp so necessary in the creative statesman. His break from Champ Clark at the Baltimore Democratic convention of 1912, after his state, Nebraska, had instructed him through a primary, was in our opinion, a serious breach of fidelity. Of course Mr. Bryan sought to justify what he had done.

But regardless of all this, the correct history of this country for the last 35 years cannot be written without coupling the name of Bryan with it. He was clean in his private life. He ascended the mountain tops while many of his political enemies remained in the valleys, many of them in the muck and the mire.

The man got a hold on the hearts and the confidence of the rank and file of the American people that few men of the country ever had and which caused the green eye in many who saw things from a viewpoint different from his.

Mr. Werner's articles seek to place a sort of cloud over almost all of the leading incidents and questions with which the name of Bryan is associated. His attempt to becloud the Commoner's name will be as seed sown in barren soil.

GILLESPIE'S MOTHER PASSES AWAY.

The Sentinel deeply sympathizes with Sumter Gillespie, editor of the Greenwood Commonwealth, over the passing away of his mother which occurred Sunday morning, March 31. Mrs. Gillespie had made a good wife and was a loving mother. For a number of years, or since her children have been grown, she has devoted much time to benevolent and Christian work. She endeavored to let in the sunshine of heaven whenever the opportunity came to her. She tried her best to link the beauties of today with the glories of tomorrow. We feel sure that Sumter will, insofar as he can, endeavor to carry out his mother's plans and to live the life she taught him to live. Only about five years ago, Mrs. Gillespie was called upon to give up her husband, J. L. Gillespie, but now they are together on the other shore.

"PROPAGANDA".

Under the above caption, The Meridian Star, edited and owned by Mr. Skewes, a very scholarly man and one of the few wealthy newspaper men in the state, carried an editorial in its issue of March 24, which The Sentinel has been asked to reproduce.

In reproducing the editorial The Sentinel would not be understood as endorsing all it contains. It digs pretty deep. But it carries a warning, and furnishes food for thought that should admonish those in Mississippi taking the lead in trying to push through a road law as well as our neighbor, the Commercial Appeal, just across the line, to "be careful Si". The editorial follows:

Mississippians in general are beginning to resent all-too-apparent designs on the part of neighboring so-called metropolitan daily newspapers to mix in purely Mississippi domestic and political affairs.

The Commercial Appeal of Memphis seems to be carrying on a campaign of cleverly conceived editorial-and-news propaganda-one-sided half truths and in some cases outright misrepresentation of conditions or misstatement of fact.

A campaign of this nature, sponsored and conducted by a newspaper outside of this state, is obviously altogether prompted neither by nor for the sole aim and purpose of bettering things in Mississippi.

Such obvious propaganda on its face invites frank suspicion of the motive behind it.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal is now a chain newspaper, owned in conjunction with several other large mid-southern daily newspapers by a syndicate of investment bankers behind the banner of Col. Luke Lea, former short-time senator from Tennessee. This syndicate of bankers has huge and varied financial ramifications. Its manipulation of its newspaper properties bears earmarks of concerted effort to exploit public opinion in the interest of its huge financial holdings.

It seems more than passing strange that this Memphis newspaper should so eagerly bestir itself in behalf of the Bilbo administration $82,000,000 bond issue plan for Mississippi highway building. The proposed bonds, if and when issued, may or may not be turned over to Caldwell interests; Kentucky Rock Asphalt (Kyrock) may or may not be chosen as materials with which to build or surface highways—

Nevertheless, in view of the ramification of the group behind the Memphis daily, this all-too-active outside editorial interference in purely Mississippi things may well bear scrutiny. Huge combinations of eastern capital which buy up banks, insurance companies and daily newspapers on a wholesale scale are hardly taking such a zealous interest in Mississippi politics because—they "love us so."

Whether the proposed highway bond issue be wrong or right, foolish or wise—we in Mississippi are well qualified to solve our own problems and work out our own highway salvation without "first aid" from outside parties with largely their own mercenary, venal purposes to serve.

Axes to grind, strings to pull, favors to obtain, profit, aims to fufill, unalloyed altruism is never made of such stern and selfish stuff.

The Commercial Appeal in the days of the late lamented C. P. J. Mooney was a great newspaper—one of the leading papers of the country and the initial exponent of business, development, culture and ideals of the south.

Now, the Commercial Appeal seems to be gradually falling into the class of a mere propaganda "sheet"—printing the news as a mask behind which to promote the dollar-schemes of its money-chasing financial owners.

And all this is not the mere whining complaint of jealous rivalry.

The Commercial Appeal is in no sense a competitor of the Meridian Star; the fields of the two are wide apart-no over-lapping, no competition—separate institutions in separate spheres.

As man cannot live by bread alone, even so a newspaper cannot live by money alone. When the dollar takes the editorial helm, all the best in journalism goes into the sea.

Hence, the Memphis newspaper campaign throughout the state of Mississippi may be taken by thinking citizens as in the main, not in the welfare of Mississippi or of Mississippians, but in the promotion of a huge financial institution, with its own purposes to serve, its own selfish designs to advance and its own dollar-grabbing ambitions to achieve.

Time was, when the great Memphis morning daily could proudly boast "When you read it in the Commercial Appeal—it's so."

Now under the new regime of frenzied finance and dollar-politics-

When you read it in the Commercial Appeal—INVESTIGATE.

JEFFERSON BELIEVED IN ONE CODE OF MORALITY.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to James Madison of date of August 28, 1789, laid down a doctrine that the present age needs to learn and analyze, and to put into practice. Hardly a week passes that one does not see in the columns of the press accounts of trusted men either stealing outright or embezzling funds, which, together with other grave offenses, almost makes one skeptical at times of the honesty of all men.

A man who will defraud his neighbor or friend will likewise defraud the general public if given an opportunity and the reverse is just as true as to what a neighbor or friend may expect of the man who will join with ten or a hundred other men to do that which adds to the coffers of his own treasury.

Mr. Jefferson's words, "I know of but one code of morality whether acting singly or collectively", if put into practice today, would mean a scattering of financial wolves in many big business enterprises, and confederating officials in places would be turned upon barren pastures.

"I know of but one code of morality for men, whether acting singly or collectively. He who says I will be a rogue when I act in company with a hundred others, but an honest man when I act alone, may be believed in the former assertion, but not in the latter.

"If the morality of one man produce a just line of conduct in him, acting individually, why should not the morality of one hundred men produce a just line of conduct in them acting together?"

PRAISE FOR MR. BINFORD.

At a banquet of the Memphis Life Underwriters' Association, Inc., Memphians and visitors from other cities spoke Thursday night in praise of Mr. Lloyd T. Binford, formerly of Duck Hill, Miss., now president of the Columbian Mutual Life Insurance Company.

They spoke of his remarkable success, of his excellent character as expressed in his social and business conduct and of his value as a citizen.

Memphis is genuinely proud of Mr. Binford. Compliments given him by those of his own profession might readily be repeated by those of other professions who know of him and his admirable work.—Memphis Evening Appeal.

THAT PROTECTIVE TARIFF MEET.

There was a meeting held in Jackson Wednesday, April 3, how well attended deponeth sayeth not at this writing, for the alleged purpose of getting a protective tariff on certain farm and trucking products.

The meeting had the official sanction of the state department of agriculture. Among the names listed as being interested, and there were nearly a score of them, was that of the head of the agricultural department of the state. Also that of Mr. J. H. Kirby, head of the southern tariff association, whatever that is. Mr. Kirby, like the peckerwood, has been pecking in that tariff hole for several years, if our memory serves us correctly.

In our judgmnet, the meeting is but another one of the hundreds to which the farmer has been treated for these years. He is offered the big striped stick of candy while other and larger interests get the ham and the bacon. The thing, we wager a dime to a ginger cake, is another trap for the farmer of "come into our parlor". If any benefit ever comes of a tariff meet in these parts for the farmer, he will get a nickle while the capitalist gets his hundreds or maybe thousands of dollars.

Yes, it is true that the Democratic party played hide and seek on the tariff question during the last presidential campaign, but it got one of the worst lickings it ever received at the hands of the American voters. The last campaign is not the first time man ever said "good Lord, good devil".

A tariff on long staple cotton is in keeping with the time honored principles of the Democratic party but, mind you, the big protected interests object to that. It may be all right to place a moderate tariff on certain trucking products. Long staple cotton is very largely only a product of this country.

We venture that, outside of the expert spiders who made the web, the average Mississippian at the tariff meet knows no more about a protective tariff than a hawk does about a handsaw.

But our people still persist on putting their money on the other man's tricks.

CANNOT NOTICE ALL THE TOM TITS.

A newspaper cannot afford to notice every tom tit that pecks at it. The pecks do the paper no harm and maybe they serve to ease the pain of the tom tit. It may perhaps be a bit uncharitable not to notice them, for a little newspaper publicity sometimes brings one out of utter obscurity, nevertheless it is best to take a charitable view of their pecks which are often made because of ignorance or because they are unable to properly construe the English language. They are innocent little birds and if they were deprived of their pecking, a great deal of pleasure would be taken out of their lives and no good newspaper would deprive anything or anybody of that which gives delight or satisfaction. Those who suffer the delusion that their pecking injuries the newspaper are to be pitied rather than censured.

THOMAS IS PRAISED.

Our office was made bright last evening by a pleasant call from our long time friend Capt. J. T. Thomas, of the Grenada Banking system, who was here for a short business trip. Captain Thomas is one of Mississippi's outstanding business men and philanthropists, as well as a philosopher of no mean standing, and his visits are always entertaining and inspiring.—Winston County Journal.

CURLE URGES FEED CROPS

Editor Sentinel:

Will you please allow me space in the old reliable to say a few words in regard to the feed situation in Mississippi? And Grenada County bears her part of the shortage.

The 1928 corn crop was the lowest in forty-five years. The acreage a third, the yield a fourth of 1917 and much below the five year average. Corn acreage in Mississippi has been steadily decreasing since 1921 causing the shortage of last year's crop. The amount of corn in the barns of Mississippi farmers March 1st is only one-half the amount one year ago.

Now money received from the 1928 cotton crop, scant at best, must be expended for feed stuff at almost prohibitive prices.

Notwithstanding the necessity of home grown feed crops in the live stock farming program, and notwithstanding the steady downward trend in the production of such feed crops, there is a concerted and at present highly successful effort to develop an outstanding dairy industry in Mississippi. It is evident that we are at the crossroads. We may take the former road of all cotton production that has brought about the major portion of our farm ills or we may choose the, to us, new road which leads to live stock, diversified farming which I believe leads to permanent farm prosperity. The choice must be made. We cannot do justice to the one without sacrificing to some extent the other.

Now, according to census figures each farm contains in round numbers one horse, one mule, four head of cattle, one sheep or goat, three hogs, twenty-three chickens and five people.

Now, according to the federal crop report of this year, each Mississippi farm produced ninety-two bushels of corn to feed the above-named farm population. Obviously it cannot be done. So let's plant enough acreage this year to insure each farm of its feed this fall.

Nitrogen and water are the main needs of growing corn. Growing legumes help to supply both. The average soil will produce a fair yield of corn if these two requirements are met. We can apply a nitrogenous fertilizer in the form of nitrate of soda.

But, in the long run, legume crops are the most economical. On thin lands plant either a row of corn and a row of beans or peas or plant a hill of corn and a hill of beans or peas. Plant the legumes at the time of planting corn and cultivate in your usual way. Experiments show us that the yield has been increased by the use of legumes in three years as much as a third. So let every farmer in Grenada County make a pledge to himself that "I will feed my farm another year on home grown feed". The legumes not only build our soils, but when we turn our stock out in the fall, instead of having just a field of roughness we have from one to two months of real feed for our cattle to harvest thereby increasing our milk flow and getting our stock in good condition to go through the winter.

Respectfully,
W. C. CURLE.

Grenada, Miss., March 28, 1929.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM
COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE ALWAYS

Counting Pennies

Everyone knows what it means to count the pennies, but some may think it is unnecessary for a business handling millions of dollars a year to be so careful of its receipts and disbursements. Every large business, however, needs to count the pennies in order to live within its income, and the Illinois Central System is no exception.

Pennies are the measure of the payments made for Illinois Central service. When this system in 1928 moved 61,937,935 tons of freight an average distance of 250.17 miles, it received an average of 914 thousandths of 1 penny for each ton hauled one mile. Similarly, when it transported 40,608,778 passengers an average distance of 22.64 miles, it received an average of 2.722 pennies for each passenger carried one mile.

Pennies also show where the dollars come from. Freight revenue made up 75.65 pennies and passenger revenue 13.37 pennies of the average dollar received by the Illinois Central System in 1928. The remaining 10.98 pennies came from various other services, such as express, mail and switching, and from rentals and investments.

Pennies likewise show where the dollars go. It took 27.89 pennies of the 1928 Illinois Central dollar to maintain the property. It took 27.08 pennies to operate trains, stations and other transportation service, exclusive of the 5.58 pennies spent for fuel. Other operating expenses took 12.85 pennies. Rentals consumed 4.29 pennies of the average dollar, and interest on borrowed money required 8.71 pennies. Taxes came to 6.52 pennies. It took 5.66 pennies to pay the usual dividends to stockholders, and after all these disbursements had been made there were 1.42 pennies left over out of each dollar to spend for improvements.

Prudent management of the pennies is what makes modern railway service both good and cheap.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

Monthly Council Meeting.

The regular monthly council meeting of the officers and teachers of the Methodist Sunday School was held Tuesday evening in the basement of the church.

Reports from the various departments were unusually good, showing an increase both in attendance and interest for the month of March. The contribution on Easter Sunday for the Orphans' Home at Jackson from the Sunday School department was around $100.00.

Announcement was made of the Sunday School Training School to be held at Grenada College, June 17th-22nd and the hope expressed that all Sunday School teachers will avail themselves of this splendid opportunity for this special training for their work.

Plans were discussed in regard to Sunday School day to be held some time in May.

The main feature of the program was an address by Mrs. Morris Wells on, "The Week-day Activities of a Sunday School Teacher".

A quartette by the following members of the young people's department was very much enjoyed: Messrs. Kenneth Tucker, Lewis Dubard, Jr., Orrin Melton and Harold LeDuke.

A delicious two-course supper was served during the evening.

Delightful tea and dainty little cakes were served at the close of the program, the members having prepared the refreshments and had complete charge of the arrangements and invitations issued.

Miss Fay Gunn is leader of this troop and Mrs. R. L. McLeod, Jr., is leader of Troop No. 1. A splendid work is being done under their leadership for the young girls of the community who belong to the Girl Scout organization.

Miss Lucy Talbert favored the club with a solo, "June Is Here", accompanied by Miss Catherine Lufkin, at the piano.

A report from the treasurer, Mrs. Alney McLean, was given showing the financial standing of the club.

Seventeen members and four visitors were present and a most helpful and enjoyable meeting resulted from the afternoon's program.

Girls Enjoy Camp.

Troop No. 2 of the girl scout organization, enjoyed a most delightful camping trip from Friday afternoon until Saturday night at their "shack" at Camp Borden. About twenty-eight girls were in the crowd under their leader, Miss Fay Gunn, and chaperoned by Mrs. Donald Ross and Mrs. Ben Brown.

The lovely weather and the beautiful scenery made their stay in the open all the more enjoyable, all agreeing that they had a "marvelous" time. The house which is used for these trips was fitted up and donated for this special purpose by Mr. John Borden, of Glenwild.

Many Attend Musicale.

Between seven hundred and a thousand people attended the Easter musicale at the Presbyterian Church Sunday night given by the combined choirs of the Grenada churches under the direction of Miss Catherine Lufkin, talented musician and director of the Presbyterian choir.

The music was especially good and everyone contributed his or her part most commendably. The program was most suitable to the occasion and exceedingly enjoyed by all fortunate enough to be present. Many had to stand in the doorways, and a large number were turned away as the church was filled.

to get him out of the water or else he would drown and the man backed up against the tree was pleading with his comrades to "come and bring me some shells, this gun is empty; are you fellows just going to act cowards while I die a brave man's death?"

All at once the "wolves" proved to be some of their "own pack" of dogs that had met in pugilistic encounter a pack of some other hunters' dogs, and when the other "hunters" came leisurely along the bank of the lake towards them, these frightened men cried with loud voices, "Men, you ought to have been here just now and have seen what we saw, and heard what we did. One of our party was attacked just a few steps down the lake and, before we could get our guns, he was dragged back into the cane brake by some of the fiercest and most terrorizing beasts of the forest ever known. Why, the lions, which were in the den with Daniel, were tiny kittens by these monsters. They had flaming eyes that would flash like forked lighting. Their growls were like the rush of mighty waters and the popping of their jaws and the gnashing of their teeth were like the hooks on a thousand huge derricks grabbing the sides of a log; their feet were so large that when one of them stepped into the edge of the lake, the waters rushed up the bank so quickly that John Doe was soaked in water". The visiting hunters expressed great surprise and told the frightened men that they had seen men afflicted with "stillitis" before but the effects were nothing as compared to the horrible experience they relating.

The next day these same five men are positive that they saw two snakes in deadly combat and that one had his tail wrapped around a cypress tree on the west bank of a lake 50 yards wide and that the other one was similarly anchored on the opposite side of the lake, except that his tail was embracing a huge oak tree. The heads of these snakes, the hunters aver, met midway the lake and were twisted around each other and each snake was doing his best to choke the other. They assert most positively that they saw a huge log nearby moving and that they suspected other huge serpents under it and they beat a retreat that carried them away faster than Lindbergh's airship.

One interesting god connected with the New Year is the god-of-wealth which is worshipped especially on the 5th—his birthday. The money spent on firecrackers in his honor would pay China's national debt. Few begin work again until he is properly worshipped. Another is the kitchen-god. He is a paper god and sits over the stove in the kitchen where he spies on the doings of the family for a year. On the 23rd of the 12th month he is given a big feast. Sweet syrup is put on his mouth and he is put in a beautiful paper sedan chair and burned in glorious style, accompanied by fireworks—which is sending him to the Upper-god to report on their year's doings—all this fuss and sweetness is to bribe him to speak well of their family to his majesty. When he returns on the last night of the old year—a new idol is bought and placed with little ceremony—in the old niche—it will be a year before he reports again—why "taffy" him now?

Next to idol-worship gambling takes a big place in New Year celebrations—gambling everywhere! What they eat and drink, and the fire-crackers, and gambling, all, in some way or other, symbolize or point to the sound "Kae-sen"—excelsior! in the sense of rising high in wealth and station—especially in wealth. It's indeed a wonderfully interesting time, and is indulged in even by beggars—for they receive a harvest of alms.

The Nationalist Government ordered that Chinese New Year should not be observed this year. It might as well have tried to turn back the greatest tidal wave of history! National commands stop the observance of Chinese New Year's custom! Only the conversion of these people to Christ will stop this idol worship and lead to the worship of the true God. And to us the glad part of it that each year more leave the false and adopt the true as the Chinese one by one are born anew. We are not discouraged. Pray much for China. Kindest regards and best wishes. Yours in Christ's glad service,

Cattle Men Take Heavy Loss

The high retail cost of beef is said to be responsible for a depreciation at least 1,000 millions of dollars from paper value of live stock. Wholesale prices have dropped $4 per 100 pounds. Low purchasing power on the part of consumers together with high retail charges, has resulted in a 30 per cent reduction in consumption and a clogging of refrigerators with beef.

Other authorities contend that the high price of meats has forced the American public to change its diet. They say that notwithstanding the fact that we have 200,000 more people to feed, the inhabitants of this country eat 45 per cent less meat than ten years ago. At the same time consumption of salads has increased 110 per cent. Pastry has dropped off in consumption 25 per cent, bread 29 per cent and potatoes 15 per cent. Items of diet which have increased are ice cream, 30 per cent; malted milk, 63 per cent; whole milk, 63 per cent; fresh fruit 39 per cent; fresh vegetables and whole wheat bread 35 per cent; cereals 34 per cent; canned fruit 33 per cent; poultry 25 per cent and eggs 11 per cent. These figures are compiled from a survey of restaurant and hotel records.

It is becoming more and more evident that industry, oil, iron, beef or what-not, cannot make a market unless consumers have money enough to buy with. Building and loan and installment payments to say nothing of the cost of maintenance of automobiles, consumes every dollar the average man can obtain—and the uncertainity of employment does not aid the situation.

A head of a cabbage nearly five feet in circumference was exhibited by the Royal Agricultural Society in London.

It has been estimated that it costs nearly $600,000.00 a year for the "upkeep" of the hair and complexion of American women.

Zone Missionary Meeting.

A zone meeting of the missionary societies of Grenada, Duck Hill and Holcomb which comprise Zone 2 of the Holcomb District, was held in Grenada Friday afternoon at the Methodist church with a representative number from each society. This was the first zone meeting of the new year.

Mrs. Frank Matthews, chairman of this zone, had charge of the program. Mrs. Groce Carver, of Holcomb, temporary secretary, was elected secretary. The meeting was opened with devotional by Mrs. E. H. Cunningham, with special emphasis on fruit-bearing. Rev. J. H. Holder then led in prayer. Mrs. Bruce Newsom told the duties of a president of a missionary society and what it takes to make a good president. Mrs. T. J. Brown gave the duties of a corresponding secretary. A duet by Mrs. Ben Graham and Mrs. Matthews, accompanied by Mrs. R. H. Herring, was very much enjoyed. "What a mission and Bible study leader must do to make it a success" was discussed by Mrs. Herring. The duties of the superintendent of publicity were told by Mrs. E. R. Proudfit. Mrs. Clara Atkinson told of the duties of each member to her society.

A report from the young people's society was made by Miss Louzelle Thompson. Mrs. Walker, of Duck Hill, gave a report from the Duck Hill society, followed by a report from the Holcomb society by Mrs. E. D. Holcomb.

Mrs. A. W. Stokes, missionary secretary of the Grenada district, gave a report of the work of the district financially. The goal of the societies is for every member of the Methodist church to be a member of the missionary society. "Christian Stewardship" is the topic for study and prayer for the year.

Duck Hill was decided on as the next meeting place for the zone meeting. The district meeting will be held at Oxford, April 12th, for the northern half of the district, and at Sallis April 16th, for the southern half. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Cunningham.

Many Attend Barn Dance.

One of the most enjoyable social functions ever given in Grenada was the Barn Dance, on Monday night at the cattle barn on Glenwild Plantation with Mr. and Mrs. John Borden, host and hostess.

Several hundred guests enjoyed the gracious hospitality of this charming couple.

The building was decorated in American flags draped about the walls, and many electrically lighted "welcome" signs added to the enjoyableness of the occasion. Each guest was personally welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Borden, as they arrived, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jones assisting in receiving the guests.

A number of the dancers were "en costume", befitting the April Fools' day celebration and the many spectators enjoyed to the fullest witnessing "the tripping of the light fantastic toe" by the merry-makers.

Enjoyable refreshments were served throughout the evening and it was with much reluctance that the guests bid adieu to their host and hostess in the "wee, small hours", all agreeing that the party was perfect in every detail.

A seven-piece orchestra furnished the music which was especially good, and added greatly to the evening's entertainment.

The "barn dance" was but one of the many gracious acts by Mr. Borden to show his interest in Grenada and his regard for Grenada people. His thoughtfulness and worthy deeds are duly appreciated. His lovely wife entered wholeheartedly into the delights of the evening. By way of parenthesis, it may be stated that Mrs. Borden is an author of distinction, her latest book being one covering the recent trip made by Mr. and Mrs. Borden and party, including quite a number of others, to Alaska. It is stated that Mrs. Borden is using a part of the time she is now enjoying at Glenwild in completing another book which will be forthcoming real soon.

AUTO ACCIDENTS INCREASE

Automobile accidents are on the increase. They appear to be multiplying very nearly as fast as car purchasers are executing notes for cars they buy. Just Sunday there were three rather serious accidents near Grenada. Monday saw a bad car wreck. Speed may account for many of the car mishaps, but incompetent drivers for more. The careful driver now is in danger from the fellow who acteth like the man which the Bible states should be answered according to his folly. The good driver is in greater danger now from reckless or incompetent ones at the wheel than he is from any other cause including bad places in roads. The Sentinel feels sure that if many automobile dealers feel that if purchasers of their cars were in as big a hurry to take car of their I. O. U's. as they are to get over space on the highways, many anxious minds would be eased. Yes, the reckless driver gets by many daring things, but there is always just one time too much. A farmer had a kicking mule and he bragged that the mule knew whom to kick and that he had never kicked him, but one night about the barn he walked behind his progeny of Baalam's saddler, and lo two heels landed in the pit of his stomach and for several days he thought his light would go entirely out. He risked too much. He passed the mule's heels one time too much. One only needs to stand upon the streets for a few hours and watch the moving automobiles to learn how far many of them are missing legal regulations and to see that most hazardous risks are taken. It has been said that the good Lord cares especially for children and drunk men, and the careful observer of moving cars is bound to think that arms have been stretched to take in the car driver who fails to think for himself also. The danger on the highways now is not so much from your own car but from the car of the other fellow. The best and safest plan, it seems, is for the cautious driver to take it for granted that he is going to meet a car driven by one who is acting a fool or that one acting foolish is going to pass him. Rigid tests of drivers are coming; it must be had if human life is to be protected.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for April 7

THE MINISTRY OF ISAIAH

LESSON TEXT.—Isaiah 6:1-13; 29: 1, 2; 38:1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then said I, here am I, send me.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being God's Helper.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being God's Helper.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding a Life Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Obedient to the Heavenly Vision.

I. Isaiah's call (Isa. 6:1-13).

1. Isaiah's vision of the Lord (vv. 1-4).

(1) He saw the Lord on His throne (v. 1). The supreme need of a servant of God is to have a vision of Him.

(2) He saw the seraphim above (vv. 2, 3). Their position indicated that they were in readiness to do His bidding. The six wings showed their ability to execute the divine will. One pair veiled the head from the divine glory, one veiled the feet which had been soiled in contact with the world, while the third was held in readiness to depart on the divine errand. Their continued cry was, "Holy, holy, holy."

(3) He saw manifestations of majesty (v. 4).

As the seraphim cried, the very door posts moved and the temple was filled with smoke. Smoke symbolizes the divine presence in anger (Exod. 19:8; 29:18). This indicated that the selfishness, idolatry and wickedness of Israel had provoked God's wrath.

2. Isaiah's conviction of sin (v. 6).

When he saw the vision of the Holy God, he was smitten with a sense of sin. The reason men think well of themselves is that they have never seen God. Face to face with the Lord, Isaiah saw himself as wholly vile.

3. Isaiah cleansed from sin (vv. 6, 7).

Having been convicted of sin and made confession, a burning coal was sent from the altar which purged away his guilt. His acknowledged guilt was forgiven and removed.

4. Isaiah's call (v. 8).

His call from God did not come until after his cleansing. The purged soul is ready for the Lord's service.

5. Isaiah's dedication (v. 8).

As soon as he was cleansed he responded to the call for service. He did not inquire as to the issue, but freely gave himself to that service.

6. Isaiah's commission (vv. 9-13).

Because of the unpromising outlook Isaiah shrank from his responsibility. The Lord assured him that the people's blindness and sin would not endure forever. They would continue in sin, be taken into captivity, and the land left desolate. Their life, however, would be as the oak which sheds its leaves and is for the time apparently lifeless, but still retains its substance.

II. Isaiah's Prophecy Concerning Assyria and Egypt (Isa. 20:1-6).

The increasing power of Assyria alarmed the Jews who were inclined to turn to Egypt and Ethiopia for help. Isaiah severely rebuked them for turning away from God to Egypt (31:1-6).

1. The prophet's action (vv. 1, 2).

He removed his outer garments and walked about Jerusalem as a beggar in order to make a deep impression upon the people.

2. The significance of the sign (vv. 3-5).

For three years he went about in the dress of a beggar. As he had wandered about naked and barefoot, so would Egypt be led away in shame by the Assyrians.

3. The warning (v. 6).

The people are made to say, "Such is our expectation, whither we flee for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria: how shall we escape?"

III. Isaiah's Message to Hezekiah (Isa. 38:1-8).

Hezekiah had inclined somewhat toward seeking help from Egypt.

1. Hezekiah's sickness (v. 1).

For this disloyalty God sent sickness as a means of chastisement.

2. Isaiah's first message (v. 1).

"Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live." This doubtless is to be understood as a prophetic warning rather than a positive prediction.

3. Hezekiah' prayer (vv. 2, 3).

He plead with God for consideration on the basis of his faithfulness.

4. Isaiah's second message (vv. 4-6).

God sent Isaiah to tell Hezekiah that his prayer had been heard, his life would be prolonged for fifteen years, and that Jerusalem would be delivered out of the hand of the king of Assyria.

5. The sign given (vv. 7, 8).

The sign was the going back of the shadow of the sundial ten degrees.

An Old Story . . .

In a northern city, there's a man who manufacturers and sells chemicals. He puts out disinfectants, antiseptics, liquid soaps, etc., and his products are thoroughly good.

He knows the ins and outs of his own business from a technical standpoint but he's had bad luck in hiring salesmen. The kind he can get are no account and the kind he ought to have won't work for him long. Just why that's true makes no difference so far as this story goes.

Down the street from him there's another house of the same kind that hires no salesmen.

But once a week they mail to every hospital and public institution in their territory a neatly printed price list with a few simple explanatory remarks about each product. And attached to this price list is always a smaller sheet containing some vital facts about the merits of one particular product in the line.

The first company referred to has made no progress in several years, but the second company has recently moved into larger quarters and Bradstreet's new book shows a larger rating after their name than they enjoyed last year.

The lesson, of course, is obvious. It's case of the mail beating male.

Right here at home there are parallel cases, but it's more charitable to pick an institution farther away for illustration purposes.

But, whether salesmen are employed or not, the consistent use of good printed matter will build any worthy business to greater possibilities.

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak, nervous or ailing woman, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her aid. Women in every walk of life today say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a reliable medicine. It is made from roots and herbs, sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablets.

Miss Mary Alice Tolar of Jonestown, Miss., said:—"I suffered for several years with my back and pains under my shoulder blades, also functional disturbances. I had gas on my stomach all the time, was weak, nervous and had dizzy headaches. I could not join in the sports and games with other girls—always felt blue. My complexion was swarthy and covered with pimples. I took different medicines but they didn't do any good. Finally I wrote to Dr. Pierce and was advised to take 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did, and felt like a different person."

PAINS
In Side and Back

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully.

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it.

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS STRENGTHEN LINES OF DISASTER RELIEF

Launch National Campaign to Perfect Preparedness Plans in Every Community.

A nation-wide campaign to strengthen plans for preparedness against disaster and for emergency relief has been launched by the American Red Cross through its Chapters. The program is intended to perfect disaster preparedness committees in the ten thousand communities reached by Red Cross Chapters and their branches.

When carried out, through committees of men and women in the communities, it will insure that should a disaster come, an organization for emergency relief, including every modern method science has perfected—such as the radio, the airplane, the motor car and watercraft—can be mobilized to bring assistance, with the promptitude applied by the Red Cross in recent major disasters, such as the West Indies hurricane and the Mississippi Valley flood.

These enlarged and strengthened plans for disaster relief are set forth in the revised Red Cross manual, "When Disaster Strikes," which has been placed in the hands of every Red Cross chairman throughout the nation. The plan to encourage adoption of these added disaster preparedness methods was begun at this time because Red Cross records—covering 48 years of disaster relief—show that the period of the greatest number of disasters, large and small, ranges from the early Spring through the early Fall.

The Record of 48 Years

An historical summary of Red Cross disaster relief, since 1882, shows that the society was active in giving relief in 938 domestic disasters and its expenditures in those relief operations were $49,594,000. The three groups of calamities appearing most frequently were: cyclones, tornadoes, hurricanes and other storms, 231; fires, 131; floods, 126.

During this period, the Red Cross also has given assistance to distressed peoples of other countries in 153 disasters. Total expenditures for relief at home and throughout the world, in 48 years, amount to $77,354,000.

In four recent major disasters Red Cross expenditures for relief totaled $29,188,908. Only in the event of large disasters such as the Florida hurricane of 1926, the Mississippi Valley and New England floods of 1927, and the West Indies hurricane of 1928, does the Red Cross seek contributions from the general public for relief work; and frequently these are not ample, as in the four disasters listed, the Red Cross donated $1,338,201 from its own treasury. In small disasters, the cost of relief is met largely from Red Cross resources.

No Community Immune

No community is immune to great disasters of one type or another, the manual shows. One preparedness measure that can be adopted is a survey of the surrounding country, with the assistance of engineers and other experts, to determine the type of disaster to which the section is subject.

Extension of existing disaster organizations in communities, and organization of men and women, trained in public health and community service, will result in the saving of lives and the prevention of extensive suffering, through privation, epidemic and other misfortune, should emergency arise. These organization plans, outlined in the manual, are similar to those now existing in most Red Cross Chapters, only strengthened in some particulars.

Co-ordination of all of the societies, organized groups and institutions in the locality is urged, so that all effort for emergency relief will be directed without conflict. Trained in advance, these committees can swing into action, and provide an orderly and systematic relief organization, functioning efficiently from the beginning.

When a hurricane blows out of the sea, a cyclone rushes across prosperous communities, or a conflagration destroys a great area—these are occasions upon which the Red Cross Chapters and branches should be prepared with trained personnel and proper supplies to respond. Every resource of the national organization also is at their command.

The following are expenditures made by the American National Red Cross for relief in the four most recent major disasters:

Florida hurricane, 1926	$4,477,170.07
Mississippi Valley flood, 1927	17,498,902.16
New England flood, 1927	1,299,773.93
West Indies hurricane, 1928.....	5,913,062.47
	$29,188,908.63

NEARLY FIFTY YEARS OLD

The Grenada Weekly Register of January 7, 1843.

Brought to Light by Accident.

Well Printed and Filled With Interesting Matter.

Under the above caption the following which had been clipped from The Sentinel of May 7, 1892, by some one and handed to this office, perhaps several years ago, chanced to fall under the eye of the writer a few days ago, and thinking that it would be a matter of interest to many Sentinel readers of this section, it is reproduced:

"Some weeks ago Mr. B. F. Thomas, proprietor of the Chamberlin House, informed us that some traveling gentleman had told him that he had seen a Grenada newspaper of 1843, in the possession of Mitchell & Son, of Harrison Station. The writer at once wrote to Messrs. Mitchell & Son, requesting them to send us the paper for a short time, which they promptly did. The name of the paper is The Weekly Register, dated 'Grenada, Mississippi, Saturday, January 7, 1843 volume 2, No. 1, by F. A. Tyler.' It is neatly and correctly printed, and still well preserved. The paper is six columns, four pages,—just one-half the present size of The Sentinel. We have been informed that Mr. Tyler was also a Presbyterian preacher, and from last accounts was still alive. The editorials and locals are both able and applicable. The names of Henry Clay, of Kentucky, and John Davis, of Massachussetts, are hoisted for President and Vice-President respectively, which shows in politics that it was evidently Whig.

"Among the advertisements is 'The Yalobusha House,' kept by Mr. Levin Lake, who is still living. The hotel, we learn, was then located where the drug store house of Dr. Parker's now stands, as well as on the lot south of it, the property now of W. A. Belew. Mr. Lake, as far as we know, is the only man living whose name figures in this paper. It seems to be a memorial of the dead past, rather than the living. It does not contain many mercantile advertisements, but has quite a number of legal and other small ones. One of them is an advertisement of the 'Graysport Packet,' in which 'W. C. Bryarly, having purchased the splendid new Keel Boat', 'Geo. Anna,' will run her regularly between Graysport and Wm's Landing, taking freight and cotton from and to all intermediate ports. There are other interesting articles and advertisements in the paper, and we hope some time in the future to be able to re-publish the whole paper in full, and as near like the original as possible—providing enough copies of the paper could be sold to pay at least a part of the expense. It would truly be worth keeping as a relic of our past civilization".

Age Barrier to Employment

Unemployment, especially that coming from discrimination against men of 40 or 45, is to be the subject of the attention of the American Federation of Labor at the meeting in Washington on May 28. Discussing one phase of unemployment among men over 40 Mr. Green, president of the Federation, laid at the door of group and casualty insurance required by workmen's compensation laws which, he said, has resulted in certain employers of large numbers of men, getting rid of the men over 40 and taking on none but young men as a means of keeping insurance premiums down. He pointed to the "inconsistency of large employers in laying off our own people or refusing to hire them, at the same time bringing in young workers from other countries for their plants and mines", and intimated that should the practice continue legislative action would be urged to further restrict immigration.

The Human Side of Big Business

Walter B. Pearson, president of the Mavis Bottling Company of America, believes that ideals and foresight plus the will and ability to carry out plans are vital elements in the building of a successful career.

By Edgar Mels

A man of vision and a close student of business, who has the faculty of putting his thoughts successfully into action is Walter B. Pearson, president of the Mavis Bottling Company of America. This Company has twenty-two plants, sixty-seven branches and a fleet of five hundred trucks.

Mr. Pearson is intensely human. He has a judicial viewpoint toward business and the ability to work hard and inspire others to do the same in attaining the desired goal.

He believes that success is built on a foundation of human relationships, the ability to take the best from them and to play the game fairly and intelligently.

Walter B. Pearson

"IT is the consensus of informed opinion that modern business success is based on three fundamental factors; a fine product, a wise administrative policy and good financing," says Walter B. Pearson, president of the Mavis Bottling Company of America. But as a shrewd observer once noted, "Back of every successful business stands the shadow of a man." Sometimes he is known to the world at large, sometimes not, but those in a position to see the drama of the growth of a great business, know him to be the directing genius whose dynamic force directs the proper use of the energies and ability of others and steers an organization to a successful goal.

The remarkable rise of the Mavis Bottling Company of America, which in the two years of its existence has reached a commanding place in the business world, has engaged the attention of many observers. This lusty, young giant, which has sold over 144,000,000 bottles of its chocolate drink within sixteen months, has now reached a most interesting period of its development. Its great strides ahead, due to the instant demand of the public for its food and drink product now calls for calm judicial appraisal of men, markets and machinery—and the stabilization and standardization of its wide-spread activities.

Directing the development of the company is Walter B. Pearson, its President. Mr. Pearson, whose executive achievements with the National Cash Register Company and The Procter and Gamble Company have placed him in a commanding position in the estimation of the business world, believes that the association with numerous people contributes to the success of a business head.

"When I was attending college in Ohio," said Mr. Pearson, "an old professor made this striking quotation from one of the world's greatest philosophers 'We are a part of all we have met. Your life and achievements are bound to be influenced by your associates.' I have since, in actual life and business relationships, observed the profound truth of that old proverb.

"There are so many factors which influence the success of a man in business and the progress of the organization with which he is associated, that it would be impossible to list all of them. But perhaps it might be possible to emphasize a few fundamental ideas, the use of which, in my opinion, are necessary to the successful direction of a business.

"An executive should, first of all, trite as it may sound, know his business. He should be able to select the right men to carry out his policies. He should at least know what his associates are doing, and be interested in their progress so that he may be fair in his decisions both to the business and the individual. He should be able to impart his vision and thoughts to others and to create in them a desire to make their policies effective."

Business leaders agree, today, that a chief executive must have vision and ideals on the one hand and the ability to carry them into successful practice on the other, and that outstanding success cannot be gained without the use of both of these factors. Such a man, it is further agreed, must be honest, both morally and intellectually. He must, of necessity, have a sound moral character. Mr. Pearson believes that such traits in the leader are necessary to inspire real confidence, courage, loyalty and ambition in an organization. Mr. Pearson stresses the vital importance of having the ability to analyze business problems correctly and to approach and secure their solution in a judicial attitude of mind.

"It would be unfair not to admit that luck occasionally contributes to success," said Mr. Pearson, "although even when it does one must be on the alert to make the most of it. It also means a great deal to be in tune with your business, to do work that you like. But even if you don't like your work, you can at least act as if you did, especially to yourself, and with devoted application to the task, perhaps you may discover later that you have found the thing you are best qualified to do."

BLANCHE HILLIARD TATUM

A Tribute

God's angel of perfect love, the angel men call "Death", kissed the breath of my friend Blanche Hilliard Tatum, and she went to be with God on April 6th, 1928.

She is missed from the home, society and the church.

If Blanche in her far away home takes cognizance of things of earth, she must know how sadly I miss her and how the vacant chair is voicing my loneliness and love. She will not be with us here again but I rejoice in the hope that we shall meet in that land where separation is not known.

May the rain fall gentlest on the mound that hides her once fair form and the grass grow greenest that hides the scar of the grave. May the song birds' matins be sweetest where she sleeps and their vespers softest where she slumbers.

A FRIEND.

An Old Story . . .

In a northern city, there's a man who manufacturers and sells chemicals. He puts out disinfectants, antiseptics, liquid soaps, etc., and his products are thoroughly good.

He knows the ins and outs of his own business from a technical standpoint but he's had bad luck in hiring salesmen. The kind he can get are no account and the kind he ought to have won't work for him long. Just why that's true makes no difference so far as this story goes.

Down the street from him there's another house of the same kind that hires no salesmen.

But once a week they mail to every hospital and public institution in their territory a neatly printed price list with a few simple explanatory remarks about each product. And attached to this price list is always a smaller sheet containing some vital facts about the merits of one particular product in the line.

The first company referred to has made no progress in several years, but the second company has recently moved into larger quarters and Bradstreet's new book shows a larger rating after their name than they enjoyed last year.

The lesson, of course, is obvious. It's case of the mail beating male.

Right here at home there are parallel cases, but it's more charitable to pick an institution farther away for illustration purposes.

But, whether salesmen are employed or not, the consistent use of good printed matter will build any worthy business to greater possibilities.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED a good while before I found something that would help me," writes Mr. R. W. Berry, of Neosho, Mo. "My trouble was indigestion, pains in my chest and a tight, bloated feeling that would make me feel smothered.

"Speaking of this to a friend of mine, he told me that Black-Draught was good for this trouble. I bought a package. It certainly did help me, so I continued to use it.

"I am in the transfer business, and sometimes when I would be hungry and ready to eat, I would have a call and would have to eat later. Then I would eat too much or too hurriedly. This would cause indigestion. After I started using Black-Draught, I found it did me a world of good."
